

Charisma:

If you ask most people I think they'll say we think that old people are really grumpy and they don't do much. They just sit at home. But for me I didn't really have a perception of older people because I never really knew any older people. The oldest person I knew was probably my Dad [LAUGHS] Um, because they don't live here but whenever I do visit them I felt like they were some one that I could talk to but it's different here because I don't know any old people so I didn't really have a perception of older people.
