

Victor:

My perception was one of sort of arrogance, unruly, not very clever, not very sort of communicative between the senior people. Didn't want to know us and I just felt that was them and us really and there's no sort of point of trying to communicate with them because I just didn't think that would be possible.