No, no, no. I love Yogurt. Yogurt's my favorite. Give me yogurt.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

And I hate yogurt. It's just stuff with bits in.

You said it was your favorite.

New mouth, new rules. It's like eating after cleaning your teeth. Everything tastes--
[SCREAMING]

What is it? What's wrong with you?

Wrong with me? It's not my fault. Why can't you give me any decent food. You're Scottish. Fry something.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

Bacon.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

[GIGGLES]

Bacon. That's bacon. Are you trying to poison me?

[MUSIC PLAYING]

Ah, you see? Beans. Beans are evil. Bad, bad beans.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

Bread and butter, now you're talking.

[CRASHING]

And stay out!

[DOG BARKING]

I've got some carrots.

Carrots? Are you insane? No, wait. Hang on. I know what I need. I need-- I need-- I need fish fingers and custard.

[MUSIC PLAYING]

Funny.

Am I? Good. Funny's good. What's your name?

Amelia Pond.

Oh, that's a brilliant name. Amelia Pond, like a name in a fairy tale. Are we in Scotland, Amelia?

No. I had to move to England. It's rubbish.

So what about your mom and dad then? They're upstairs. I thought I would have woken them by now.

Don't have a mom and dad, just an aunt.

I don't even have an aunt.

You're lucky.

I know. So your aunt, where is she?

She's out.

And she left you all alone.

I'm not scared.

Of course you're not. You're not scared of anything. Box falls out the sky, man falls out of the box, man eats fish custard. And look at you, just sitting there. So you know what I think?

What?

Must be hell of a scary crack in your wall.
