

Thought and experience

What are the origins of the modern concept of mind? What is consciousness? And what is the relationship between imagination and creativity. In the tracks on this album, leading philosophers give their perspectives on theories developed by Aristotle, Descartes, Galileo, and Hume, and present their own views on consciousness, emotion, thought and language, imagination and creativity. This material forms part of the Open University course AA308 Thought and experience.