

Ethics Bites

Ethics Bites tackles head-on some of the most contentious moral issues in modern society. Open University philosopher and best-selling author Nigel Warburton teases out the latest thinking on issues as diverse as climate change, euthanasia, censorship of the arts and corporate responsibility. Contributors include Mary Warnock, James Garvey, Janet Radcliffe-Richards and a trio of US based professors, including the eminent philosopher Peter Singer. The original podcasts were made by David Edmonds in association with the Open University.