

The Final Cut

What does a video editor do?

As an editor I see my job as being given a material and a brief, an idea of what to do and then to take those pieces of material, video and sound elements, and then to put them together to create a finished piece, a finished story which is watchable, believable, enjoyable, clear and understandable and makes the best of all the elements I've been provided with.