Working with children and families

This album takes an extensive look at the ins-and-outs of family life and caring for children. It draws on interviews with a wide-ranging selection of professionals, from people who deal directly with children at nurseries or schools to those that help shape national policy, throwing light on national initiatives and schemes such as ChildLine, and exploring family life from different perspectives and social levels. This material forms part of K204, Working with children and families.
