

International development: challenges for a world in transition

Speeding up the pace of change

Narrator

In the municipal library in Sicuani, a new partnership is taking shape, that will speed up the pace of change. ITDG's operation is smaller. But the kamayoqs have formed an association and with ITDG's help have raised funding for an information centre and technology library.

Franklin Béjar Miranda, Municipality of Canchis (English subtitles)

The Municipality of Canchis Province has as its primary goal to work directly with campesinos in the countryside. This is a new development for local government. The campesinos are an important sector and they've been neglected

Narrator

This new relationship between the kamayoqs and the municipality can only help the Quechua speaking farming world.

The kamayoqs are promoters of change and it's only through official support for sustainable change that Andean communities have any hope of long term development.
